MEDIA RELEASE

Date: November 2, 2011

Daylight Saving Time Ends Sunday Morning

Daylight Saving Time will end at 2:00 a.m. Sunday, November 6. Roll your clocks back one hour.

Remember to change the batteries in your smoke detectors, unless your unit is hardwired, as through an alarm system, or equipped with the ten-year lithium battery.

You are probably tired of hearing or reading this repetitive message, but we still respond to fires where the smoke detector did not work because of a rundown battery or no battery at all.

Please think of it as the cheapest insurance you can buy to protect your family from fire. Smoke detectors don't prevent fires, but they give you the most precious thing in an emergency: time to escape safely. Smoke detectors save lives, but only when they work.
